PALM BEACH NORTH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HONORS KIM JONES
FROM CELEDINAS AS THEIR WOMAN OF THE YEAR RECIPIENT

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. – The Palm Beach North Chamber of Commerce is pleased to announce Kim Jones, assistant vice president of employee benefits at Celedinas, a Marsh & McLennan Agency, was named the 2016 Woman of Year recipient at their annual Woman of the Year Award Luncheon.

“It was an honor and privilege to be nominated along with the other honorees who were all amazing, and it speaks volumes about the caliber of women we have here in our community,” said Jones, who provides strategic planning for employer groups, including plan design and implementation, cost-containment strategies and results driven wellness programs for Celedinas.

The luncheon, which was emceed by WPBF25 News Anchor Stephanie Berzinski, took place November 10 at the Wyndham Grand Jupiter and honored Jones and the other three finalists: Rebecca Doane, founder of the law firm Donane & Doane, PA; Laura King, vice president of commercial banking at First Citizens Bank; and Maria Marino, executive director for Jupiter Children's Foundation and Marino Realty Group.

All the finalists were nominated for the Woman of the Year award because they demonstrated a commitment to the Palm Beach North community, inspired community-wide support, and exemplified the highest standards of business and community leadership.

Jones demonstrated a true commitment to the community through her involvement in many local organizations such as Quantum House, St. Mary's Hospital, Palm Beach Children's Hospital, United Way of Palm Beach County, and Leadership Palm Beach County.
